The economic relations between it and Uzbekistan. In particular, the Jewish entity's leading news portal Bhol.co.il published a journalistic report about the experience of a Jewish businessman, who succeeded in implementing an investment project in the Namangan region.

The example of an investment project in the textile industry in Namangan province clearly shows that the usurping Jewish entity is actively conducting business in Uzbekistan, while continuing its endless war crimes in Gaza. According to the Jewish investor, Abraham Chaim, he launched his project inspired by the security, safety, and sincerity of ordinary people in Uzbekistan. His company, Meleh Tex, aims to produce textile products worth $20 million annually, employing hundreds of local workers across several textile factories in Namangan.

The article indicates that such projects will increase the volume of bilateral trade, and serve as a model for other businessmen from the entity to enter the Central Asian market. Additionally, in a video that recently circulated on social media, the governor of the Khatirchi region, Umidjon Adizov, officially welcomed Bukharan Jews living abroad, repeatedly emphasizing that the doors are always open to them, and that they are always appreciated. He stated that they would be given significant opportunities to work in fields such as tourism and the economy.

Such diplomatic statements not only serve to strengthen ties between the Jewish diaspora and the Jewish entity, but also demonstrate that the official policy is coordinated at the local level. This is because governors of regions, provinces, and cities are in fact appointed by the presidential administration, and implement the president's policies and decrees in their areas. Therefore, it can be said that Uzbekistan's regime, under the guise of developing tourism and attracting investment, is practically supporting the crimes of the usurping Jewish entity in Gaza, even if it criticizes them in words.

Moreover, considering that 96 to 97 percent of Uzbekistan's population is Muslim, this indicates that the Uzbek regime is not concerned that strengthening economic ties with the Jewish entity, against the backdrop of genocide and the massacre in Gaza, will lead to widespread public outrage.

It can also be understood that the Jewish state is keen to expand its economic influence and establish a "financial base" for itself at the expense of countries distant from the tensions in Gaza. The United States is turning Uzbekistan, via Azerbaijan, into a new front for its international geopolitical objectives. This is because Uzbekistan offers tourism and economic advantages to Jews on its territory, against the backdrop of its growing strong relations with Azerbaijan. It is well known that Azerbaijan is one of the closest strategic allies of the Jewish entity in the region. The two sides maintain extensive relations in the fields of military-technical cooperation, intelligence sharing, and energy.

The Trump administration also encouraged regimes in the South Caucasus and Central Asia to establish relations with the Jewish entity, under the framework of the Abraham Accords. Although Uzbekistan has not yet officially signed these accords, it may form an alliance around them with Azerbaijan.

Azerbaijani presidential aide Hikmet Hajiyev met with the Jewish entity's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in Jerusalem on February 18, 2025, to discuss opportunities for expanding strategic relations and the Abraham Accords. A senior official from the entity told the Jerusalem Post: "Azerbaijan has been one of Israel's most reliable partners in the Muslim world for three decades...Their strategic importance to regional security architecture cannot be overstated."

At the same time, the Begin-Sadat Center for Strategic Studies published a special analytical report titled, "How to Effectively Engage Azerbaijan in Trump's Regional Plans and Israel's Interests: Practical Recommendations." The report stated, "Official obstacles must be removed to allow the United States and Israel to fully benefit from Azerbaijan's potential in the new structure of the 'Greater Middle East.'"

Azerbaijan's ambassador to the Jewish entity, Mukhtar Mammadov, later met with the co-chairs of the Abraham Accords Caucus in the Knesset. During the Knesset session, lawmakers expressed their support for expanding the scope of the Abraham Accords, to include Azerbaijan, and for bringing the country closer to the United States.

At this stage, it can be said that by bringing Central Asian regimes together under the Organization of Turkic States led by Turkey for cooperation in fields such as energy, defense, and other vital sectors, the United States is actively working to involve Azerbaijan and two key Central Asian countries, Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan, in serving America and the Jewish entity.

The agent regimes in the Islamic countries are cooperating with the colonialist kafir states like America and trade with the blood, lives, and property of Muslims in Gaza, Kashmir, and East Turkestan. In doing so, they are committing a great betrayal.

The Messenger of Allah (saw) said, «لِكُلِّ غَادِرٍ لُؤَاءٌ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ، يُرْفَعُ لَهُ بِقَدْرِ غَدْرِهِ، أَلَا وَلَا غَادِرٍ، أَعْظَمُ غَدْرًا مِنْ أَمِيرٍ عَامَةٍ» “Every betrayer will have a banner on the Day of Judgment, raised according to the extent of his betrayal. Verily, there is no greater betrayal than that of a leader who betrays the public.”
